The Power of Kindness

Food. Clothing. Pet food. Utility assistance. The ever-growing need in our community. These are the most common answers folks give in response to the question “what do you know about SnowCap?” The answer is very different when answered by someone who has ever experienced SnowCap hospitality first-hand, even after many years have passed. A woman who received only one food box over 40 years ago shared that:

“I don’t know what all of the foods were, but I just remember feeling so bad when I walked in and how when I left SnowCap I was smiling and felt truly cared for. That good feeling really stuck with me during those hard times.”

Meeting the basic human needs of those who are struggling does correctly describe SnowCap’s work. The way that we do it defines who we are.

Taking the time to find some shoes that really fits. Having a birthday cake for a child who needs something to celebrate on their special day. Asking how someone’s day is going and REALLY listening to the answer. This is who SnowCap is, and you are a part of us.

This year, I invite you to renew your commitment to all that is good and kind. I invite you to see the challenges facing our world and choose action over being overwhelmed. I have included some of the ways you can get started with spreading kindness at SnowCap in this newsletter. You can make a donation or become a monthly donor, volunteer, or come to the re-launch of our annual auction on April 13th. This year’s theme is A Million Acts of Kindness.
